Introducing DataConf

Date: August 2024, TBC

Venue: TBC

Ticket Price: R1500 (excl. VAT) TBC

Today more than ever, companies globally are placing reliance on data to establish compelling value propositions, not only to drive sales and revenue, but also to maintain efficient internal processes and employee engagement.

DataConf started in 2023 as we saw an opportunity in the South African market for an event that brings together technical professionals working in data-related roles, and we started this journey in 2023. DataConf 2023 hosted 2 tracks, 12 speakers, 1 keynote speaker and 100 attendees and this year we want to grow that! DataConf 2024 will be a full day, dual-track conference showcasing speakers people that have hands-on experience in building data-driven solutions.

This event's vision is to establish a community that today is disparate and not well represented. Data conferences in South Africa are typically either hosted and driven by a specific vendor, or are focused on only one area in the data ecosystem, such as data science. DataConf is vendor-agnostic and stretches across all areas in the data ecosystem such as data engineering, data science and business intelligence.

The conference is organised by two volunteers, Mercia Malan and Candice Mesk, with Fizz Marketing. Mercia is a data engineer with 10 years' industry experience with a solid foundation in software engineering. Candice has several years' experience in running South Africa's largest software development conference (DevConf). Fizz Marketing is DataConf's marketing and logistics service provider and has 20+ years' experience in the events industry.

Attendee Profile

DataConf targets professionals who work in any area of the data ecosystem, across various different industries. The range of topics aims to attract various levels of experience and roles. The likely attendee is already a data professional wanting to network and learn from other experts in the field, but the event will be designed to also attract people in related fields eager to understand more about data development and potentially identify their next role.

Event target TBD

Purpose

The purpose of DataConf is to provide a platform for data professionals to share their industry experience, showcase data solutions, and learn from others in the field. This is to be the first South African data conference to stretch across all areas in the data ecosystem, be vendor agnostic, and allow anyone to submit a talk proposal.

Tracks

The conference will run 2 tracks, with the following categories¹:

- Data Engineering
- Data Science
- Business Intelligence
- Data governance, security and privacy
- Managing large-scale data teams
- Machine Learning Engineering
- Data Visualisation
- DataOps
- Data Ethics

¹ Track categories may still be refined.
